THE CHARLEROI MAIL

VOL XIX—NO 307 CHARLEROI, WASHINGTON COUNTY, PENNSYLVANIA, WEDNESDAY, JUNE 4, 1919 TWO CENTS

INTERNAL REVENUE TAX MUST BE PAID ON ICE CREAM CONES

Decision By Commissioner Is Clear On This Subject

GIVES INTERPRETATION OF LAW

Ice cream cones are taxable. This connection, which is such a delight to the children of this and every other community, m ust pay over to the coffers of Uncle Sam the sum of one cent for each and every one purchased, according to the interpretation of the law by Daniel C. Roper, commissioner of internal revenue.

The new revenue law provides a tax shall be levied upon all soft drinks, ice cream, ice cream sodas, sundaes or other similar articles of food or drink when sold for consumption in or in proximity to such places of business.

This section of the law has been interpreted by Mr. Roper to mean that when any of the specified articles are sold in such containers or under conditions as to indicate that they ordinarily be consumed in or in proximity to the place of business they are taxable. Ice cream cones are taxable.

When ice cream or any similar article is s old under conditions which indicate that they usually would be consumed in or in proximity to the premises the fact that the purchaser does not so consume it but carries it away does not render it free from tax. When ice cream, soft drinks or similar articles of food or drink are sold to be carried away for consumption at a place not in proximity to the place of business, such ice cream, food or drink being placed in containers of a kind ordinarily used so as to convey the articles indicated, they are not taxablee.

This interpretation and decision on the part of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue definitely settles the point raised by The Mail on Tuesday, for the commissioner specifically says that ice cream cones are taxable, hence dealers must govern t hemselves accordingly o r make themselves liable to the penalty provisions of the law.

TRUCK LOAD OF PRISONERS TO THE COUNTY JAIL

Thirteen prisoners were taken from Monongahela to the county jail at Washington on Monday evening, thetrip to thecounty seat being made in an auto truck. Most of the prisoners were picked up last Saturday night as a result of many robberies committed in that town by colored employes of the carnival company.

COUNCIL HOLDS REGULAR SESSION

At the regular meeting of the borough council held Tuesday evening an informal discussion took place as to when the new borough building would be occupied. As there are some contracts to be completed it was the opinion of councilmen that the building would not be taken from the hands of the contractor until all contracts had been completed. The tile work will be finished in a few days but the electricians still have considerable work to do. No date for the removal of borough offices can be made until all these contracts are finished.

All members except Messrs. Duvall and Lentz were present at the meeting, which was a brief one. The garbage collector reported that the residents of North Charleroi wanted him to handle their garbage. The committee in charge of the garbage furnace was instructed to have the furnace repaired and put in shape, and the collector was told the North Charleroi people would be accommodated provided it would not interfere with the collection in the Charleroi borough.

The matter of disposing of the cells in the present borough building was placed in the hands of the real estate committee.

The street committee was instructed to see if the laying of a sidewalk on Prospect avenue between Eighth and Ninth streets was practical, and to report at the next meeting of council

A number of grievances were reported to council and referred to the proper committees for investigation.

The treasurer's report for April showed a balance of $4,838.92 at the first of the month, collections $3,445.35, a total of $8,284.27. Disbursements $6,797.51 leaving a balance of $1,486.76.

The report of Burgess Woodward for April showed fines imposed $127, fines collected $123; time $4.

Ministers Make Strong Protest Against Carnivals

At a meeting of the Charleroi Ministerial Association, held in the Washington Avenue Presbyterian church, Tuesday afternoon two important matters were considered and action taken.

The m atter of Sunday funerals was deplored and the ministers passed a resolution asking the general public, when not absolutely necessary, to refrain from thesame. So often, the members declare, funerals a re put on the Sabbath so that large assemblies can be present and time saved, which they declare is against the whole spirit and teaching of the Lord's day.

They also protested against the authorities of our city who are responsible for the carnivals which are brought here, declaring that the last carnival demoralized the morals of our youth and that the city authorities aresurely responsible. The ministers declared that it was a shame that a city should be a party to crime, and to get money by debauching the citizenship was a low plane on which to obtain the public support.

BURGLARS BUSY TUESDAY NIGHT

Burglars were operating in Charleroi Tuesday night, the dental offices of Dr. McNaughton and Dr. Hetrick, as well as the Spencer garage being entered, but the visitors got but little of value for their trouble.

At the dentists' office entrance was gained through an office formerly occupied by Dr. Sloan, the thief going over the transom into a storage room, where a panel was removed and through which opening access was easy to the operating rooms. The visitor, as a foot print indicated, wore gum shoes, and was evidently prepared for the task he had set before himself. However, the only article missed by Dr. McNaughton and the office attendants was a hair brush of small value. A desk was pried open but there was nothing of value found there.

At the Spencer garage the store room was entered and the cash register robbed, the thief getting between $25 and $30 according to an estimate made by Mr. Spencer. The thief gained entrance through a rear window in the machine shop which he jimmied open, breaking the lock which held it. He also pried open an inner window in the business office, but finding nothig of value there went into the store room, where the cash register was robbed. The desk of Mr. Spencer was not touched, although one used by Mr. Ditman was opened and ransacked.

FUNERAL HOUR FOR MR. ENEIX CHANGED

Funeral services for James E. Eneix, which were to have been held Thursday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock have been changed to 10 o'clock in the morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Ray Norris will be members of the Phi Gamma Delta commencement house party at Pennsylvania State College from the 6th to the 12th of June.

MUCH ACTIVITY AT LOCK NO. SIX

Lock No. 6 at Rices Landing is a busy place at the present time in the way of government work and this activity will continue all summer. Recently a force of twenty-five men were added to the payroll at that point and a government quarter boat has been placed there for their accommodation. The government is constructing two large retaining cribs there, one below and the other above the lock, and being so constructed as to fit in with the new lock which it is expected will be constructed at that point some time in the very near future. The steamer Kittanning recently took a large amount of government equipment to No. 6, which will be used in pushing the work now under way there, and which will require the greater portion of the summer to complete. The necessity for the new lock at that point is quite apparent and government engineers of this district hope to have all the preliminary work completed before the new lock chamber is authorized.

BASE BALL OPENING HAS BEEN POSTPONED

The baseball game which was to have been played at the local ball park next Saturday, at which time the P. J. Sullivans were to have been t he attraction, has been called off on account of bad grounds. Manager Osborne expects, however, to open the season on the evening of the 19th inst., at which time the Pittsburg Athletics will be the attraction.

Word was received today by Mrs. Anna Alexander that her son Thomas Prescott arrived on the steamer Rotterdam. He served two years in the Ambulance Company of the 80th division.

MUST SEEK NEW SAND DEPOSITS IN UPPER REACHES OF RIVER

Supply in Lower Sections of Stream Said to Be Quite Small

TO DEVELOP UP-RIVER ACTIVITY

In view of the apparent exhaustion of the sand deposits in the upper Ohio and lower Monongahela rivers it is becoming necessary for sand companies to seek other reaches on these streams in order to keep up their supply. For years the Monongahela and Ohio rivers, particularly in the vicinity of Pittsburgh, have been fertile fields for securing this supply, but the heavy demands which have been made upon the companies in the past has caused a rapid disappearance of these deposits, which have been worked both day and night in order to keep pace with the trade.

Possibly the best locations for sand dredges at the present time are to be found in the upper pools of the river, and already companies in that locality are preparing to branch out in order to get a share of the trade which has been increasing from year to year. Not only heavy concrete work in the way of retaining walls along the river as well as for building purposes, but the demands which the improved road system of Pennsylvania is about to make upon these companies will furnish plenty of o rders to keep these companies busy to their full capacity.

One of the companies which is taking advantage of this changed condition is the McClain Sand company of Point Marion. This company recently purchased the big dredge Hoosier, which had been at work on the Ohio river and will remodel it into a sand dredge, which will be kept at work in the upper end of the river. It is expected that the greater portion of sand shipments within the next year will be from the upper end of the Monongahela and it is likely that other companies will establish dredges there in order to secure their usual supply of this material.

CANDIDATE FOR COUNTY COMMISSIONER

JAMES B. WRAY
Union Township.

I desire to announce to the taxpayers of Washington County, my candidacy for the nomination for the office of County Commissioner subject to the Republican primary to be held Wednesday, September 17th, 1919.

TO RECEIVE ROAD SUPPLIES BY RIVER

The contractor who is to construct the new roadway between Monongahela and Donora proposes to receive a considerable proportion of his material by river, and to that end is constructing a landing just above the Schoenberger mine. In order to reach the river it was necessary to remove a considerable portion of the old slate pile at that point in order to construct a roadway to the new wharf which he is now building. This removal was completed on Tuesday, and a force of men is now at work in making t he necessary terminal for flats, in which sand and gravel will be carried to that point.

THE JEWISH PROTEST

The parade of the Jews in Pittsburgh and other large cities of the country on Monday in protest against the treatment of their fellow beings in Poland, a country that has been given its independence by the treaty of Paris, was one of the outstanding features in the busy affairs of our everyday life.

Poland has been saved fro mthe wreckage of Europe at the solicitation of the people of the unhappy Kingdom, which generations ago was dismembered by stronger powers and her people placed under the jurisdiction of more powerful rulers. With Russia helplessly at sea, Germany made impotent and Austro-Hungary but a skeleton of its former self Poland comes back into being, under the government framed by its own people.

After being subject to foreign dictation for so many years it was supposed that the Polish people would at least be tolerant of those of other nationalities and races who found inhabitation within her borders. If reports are true, however, this has been a mistake, for the Jews have been mistreated and defrived not only of property, but in many cases of life itself. If such be the case the national officials of Poland should be given to understand and at once that a repetition of any such occurrences would result in a withdrawal of all outside support. This might have the effect of bringing about a more tolerant attitude on the part of the Poles towards those who in the past have been the object of their hatred.

U-BOAT REVELATIONS

The truth about the German failure in submarine warfare is nowbeing revealed in publications that no longer cringe under the whip of an official censorship that was without conscience or honor. According to the Berlin Vossiche Zeitung, Germany lost 198 submarines during the war, including 7 interned in foreign ports and 14 destroyed by their own crews. This statement is an admission that 177 were sunk by the Allies and lost at sea. As most of the submarines carried as many men as could be crowded into them, the announcement that 5,000 sailors were drowned in the sinking is not surprising, but the darker tragedy is that the conditions of service on these vessels were so nerve-wrecking that several thousand sailors lost their reason and were committed to insane asylums. Here is an explanation of the mutinous spirit that spread through the High Sea Fleet and at last destroyed its morale.

The submarine campaign was lost long before the armistice was signed. Listening devices, depth bombs and the unerring guns of swarming destroyers made each venture from the base like a forlorn hope, and to find crews became the despair of the Admiralty. At the last but few submarines were in commission, and it seemed futile to go on building them in quantities. Against a powerful, resourceful and active enemy the submarine is no longer to be dreaded, but this could not have been said in the first three years of the war.—N. Y. Times.

A CRAZY ANOMALY

There is, we believe, a law of the United States forbidding the recruiting of men, or indeed the soliciting of any aid, in this county for military operations against any country with which the United States is at peace, and we remember at least one highly esteemed foreign minister who was sent home in disgrace for countenancing a violation of that very salutary law. It is a matter of interest to observe that the agent of a foreign Government is at present publicly soliciting the enlistment of men and other aid for the purpose of promoting warfare against various countries with which we are at peace, if not indeed against ourselves.

It is one of the craziest anomalies of men and other ad for the purpose of promoting warfare against various countries with which we are at peace, if not indeed agant ourselves. It is one of thecraziest anomalies of this crazy anomalous time that we should have soldiers in Russia fighting the Bolshevists, and at the same time permit a blatantly self-avowed Bolshevist agent to find harbor in America, where he is soliciting publicly the enlistment of men in this country to go over there and aid the Bolshevists with the "technical abilities" which they have acquired here. At ths rate, we may soon see opened in American cities recruiting offices for Germans, who are to go to Germany and help drive out the American army of occupation.

THE BATHING BEACH

Possibly no institution in Charleroi will gve so much real enjoyment to our people as the bathing beach once it is open to the public. Extensive improvements are under way there, and Mr. Schafer, who has been the prime mover in looking after the necessary arrangements, is deserving the thanks of the community for his unselfishid evotion to a public cause.

In addition to the bathing feature the children will be taken care of with a playground, which is now being fitted up and which will be a new feature this year, to add to the enjoyment of theyounger element of the community.

The need for such adjuncts to every community is apparent, but all are not so fortunately situated as Charleroi in this respect. Through the energy and enterprise of Mr. Schafer and his co-laborers the people here are given an opportunity to enjoy a delightful hour in the water, while the children are likewise cared for with recreation features which would otherwise be denied them.

Charleroi's bathing beach promises to be more popular than ever this year, and the pleasure which the people will derive therefrom will in a large measure be due to the energy and liberality of those men who have given of their time and means to make it attractive and convenient to all patrons.

NATURAL GAS

The Supreme Court has granted a preliminary injunction against the State of West Virginia, on an appeal from the States of Pennsylvania and Ohia, to prevent the former commonwealth from shutting off the gas supply. It may be a couple of years before the question is definitely settled, but this injunction will not have any effect on the gas company which proposes to withdraw its services from a number of up-river towns this coming fall.

As a matter of fact the natural gas proposition is becoming quite serious. We have been so accustomed in the past to using this commodity in our homes and places of business that a return to the old-time coal fire would in a measure be a hardship. In many instances families have provided themselves with coal fires in addition to the use of gas, in order to be fortified against any period in which the gas might be short, which frequently happened in the past, and which will likely happen again in the future.

It may be that manufactured gas might be provided, but the price would be such as not to appeal to the domestic consumer. Our fuel needs are going to cause us serious consideration in the future, unless the companies now in the business are able to secure a greater supply than they now have.

Select a sheet of tin-foil of required size and pour over it three drams of quicksilver for each square foot of foil. Then rub the foil with buckskin until it becomes brilliant. Lay a sheet of paper over the foil, completely covering it, and place upon the paper a slab of marble or block of wood with flat smooth surface. Allow to stand for three or four hours to "set" and then remove the weight. If the work has been carefully done the foil will adhere closely to the glass. Usually, however, it is cheaper and more satisfactory to buy a new mirror than to attempt to resilver an old one.

Good Criticism.

Theodore Dresier is a novelist of repute, but his novels are apt to be very long—700 or 800 pages, in fact. "There are sermons in stones," Mr. Dresier said at a Greenwich village tea, whereupon a young lady sculptor interrupted him "Yes, that is very true," she said; "but you ought to remember that the precious stones are all small, and at that they require a lot of cutting."

Author Also a Fighter.

A recently published history of the New York Sun contains this unpoetic reminiscence of William Cullen Bryant: "Bryant was a busy man, for he was the chief editor of the Evening Post as well as a magazine contributor and a teacher. Fame had come to him early, for 'Thanatopsis' was published when he was twenty-three, and 'To a Waterfowl' appeared a year later, in 1818. Now, in his thirties, he was no longer the delicate youth, the dreamy poet. One April day in 1831 Bryant and William L. Stone, one of the editors of the Commercial Advertiser, had a rare fight in front of the city hall, the poet beginning it with a cowskin whip swung at Stone's head, and the spectators ending it after Stone had seized the whip. These two were editors of sixpenny 'respectables.'"

Color Tells Age of Star.

It is well known among the astronomers that the color of a star determines its age. "The youngest and hottest of all are the bluish-white stars." "Red stars are the oldest of luminous bodies, and orange, yellow, and white stars follow in respective antiquity." Our sun, in its yellow stage, may be considered at the very summit of stellar life. Then comes gradual cooling. Later on a further step brings with it external solidification, the formation of a crust inclosing a hot interior at which stage the earth has arrived. And then note well this coming sentence: "The last and most pathetic period is represented by the moon, frozen, desolate, dead." This glory and miracle of the frost, is something that sets one to thinking. Will the earth share the fate of the moon?

Unique Mummy.

A mummy different from any other in the world is on exhibition in the Museum of Natural History in New York city. It is believed to be the only one of its kind ever found. It was discovered in the province of Antofagasta, Chili, and is the mummy of a Chilean Indian who was buried in a cave-in while engaged in mining copper, in prehistoric times. The body, being protected from the air, became mummified through the action of the copper salts, aided by the extremely dry climate of the region. With the mummy were found the stone wedges and stone hammers with hafted wooden handles used in mining, and baskets and a bag of llama skin for holding the mined ore.

This polyphonic prose about the Arab horse is raked up by George Jennison, in the Manchester Guardian: "Allah made the horse before man, and Allah said: 'I have called thee horse; I have created thee Arab; I have bestowed upon thee the color koummite. I have attached good fortune to the hair that falls between thy eyes. Thou shalt be the lord of all other animals. Men shall follow thee wheresoever thou goest. Good for pursuit as for flight thou shalt fly without wings. Upon thy back shall riches repose and through thy means shall wealth come.' And he signed the horse with the ghora in the middle of the forehead—the white star of glory and of good fortune."

AN ENEMY OF WOMANHOOD

The complexion, digestion and almost the complete personality of woman are dependent upon health. Woman's ills are her great enemy, as they cause bad complexion, dark circles under the eyes, headache, backache, nervousness, sleeplessness, dragging-down pains and the blues, and often totally unfit her for a companion. The great American remedy for such conditions is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound which has been restoring three generations of ailing women to health and may be relied upon with perfect confidence.

EAST HAS ITS OWN IDEALS

Not All Wisdom, Virtue and Honesty Can Be Claimed as the Prerogative of the West.

If it is more important to introduce ready-made cigarettes than it is to supply an example of unparalleled commercial honesty, China owes us a great deal. Otherwise it is vice versa. As an expert manager and as a member of the committee on foreign trade of the National Association of Manufacturers, I have learned much from foreigners in methods of merchandising, in courtesy and in breadth of business vision. The credit losses of American manufacturers average less in their dealings with the far East than they do in their domestic relations. Unjustified claims, petty exactions and semi-dishonesty are less frequent in foreign than in home trade.

An incident which happened in a New York hotel may give a hint as to why orientals are slow at accepting American ideals at our own valuation.

An export manager was discussing with his Bombay agent the details of a campaign to cover the markets of India and Afghanistan. An American friend, calling the manager aside, whispered:

"How can you bear to talk with a nigger?"

The exporter explained his long friendship with the Indian and the importance of their business relations. Then he turned to introduce the two men. The Bombay merchant had hastily put on his right glove and shook hands with his hand covered.

"Why the glove?" the exporter asked when they were alone.

"How else could I return the insult of his first glance without embarrassing you, good friend? The fact that he did not appreciate the insult makes my enjoyment the keener."—Exchange.

FIRST SETTLERS IN GEORGIA

James Oglethorpe Leader of Colonists Who Had Homes Where Now Is City of Savannah.

The first white settlers in Georgia landed at Yamacraw bluffs, on the site of the future city of Savannah, 186 years ago, and the event is now annually commemorated as "Georgia day." James Oglethorpe was the leader of the colonists, who made the trip from England in the good ship Ann, commanded by Capt. John Thomas, and the party included 35 families, besides General Oglethorpe and Rev. Thomas Bosomworth. Through Mary Musgrave, the Indian wife of a Carolina white man, the colonists obtained the consent of the Creeks, to establish a settlement, Mary acting as interpreter, accounts say. Just a week later the first house was commenced and the settlement that sprang up on the spot later became the city of Savannah. It is noteworthy that Hebrews were among the first settlers in Georgia. Forty Jews were sent out to the colony and reached Savannah in the July following Oglethorpe's landing. A government was soon organized and one of the first acts of the trustees passed in August of 1733, was to prohibit rum in Georgia. Before the year was passed a party of Saxons and another of Bavarians reached Georgia.

Fellow-Beings.

In that simple and beautiful record of a holy life, the Journal of John Woolman, there is a passage of which I have been more than once reminded in my intercourse with my fellow-beings: "Some glances of real beauty may be seen in their faces who dwell in true meekness. There is a divine harmony in the sound of that voice to which divine Love gives utterance." Quite the ugliest face I ever saw was that of a woman whom the world calls beautiful. . . . On the other hand, there are faces which the multitude at the first glance pronounce homely, unattractive, and such as "nature fashions by the gross," which I always recognize with a warm heart-thrill; not for the world would I have one feature changed; they please me as they are; they are hallowed by kind memories; they are beautiful through their associations; nor are they any the less welcome that with my admiration of them "the stranger intermeddleth not."—Whittier.

Merely Changed Music.

How bands were once sometimes recruited for the navy is suggested by an old tale of maritime warfare. When the frigate United States captured the British frigate Macedonian, about a hundred years ago, it also captured a band of eight French, German and Italian musicians. The band had first put to sea in a French frigate, which was captured by a Portuguese vessel and brought into Lisbon. There the musicians had been persuaded to enlist on the Macedonian. After their capture by the United States one judges that they played just as cheerfully for American sailormen as they had already played for French, Portuguese, and British.

Dialects of variation in spoken languages are the result of peculiarities of speech, first involuntarily adopted by individuals and then perpetuated and extended by the unconscious imitation of others. They are not premeditated or assignable to any definite cause, except the constant tendency of language to become diversified. The same causes that have produced different languages among different nations tend to produce dialectic variations in the language of every nation. The results are apparent, but the cause cannot be defined

WAS IN DANGER OF SERIOUS ILLNESS

Jas. Duffy, of Pittsburgh, Tells How Ten-Herbs Relieved Him

"Little do we realize to what extent a seemingly slight illness might lead if neglected," said the Ten-Herbs man.

Take the case of Mr. James Duffy of No. 747 Reedsdale street, Pittsburg, Pa., a boiler-maker by trade and a well-known member of the Union. He has a host of friends in that city having been a police officer in the First ward for a number of years. He states:

"For a number of years I have had catarrh of the stomach and was in constant pain; had shortness of breath, acidity of thestomach, headaches, dizzy spells and severe pains around my heart, caused by gas in my system; I was always constipated, my liver was torpid and sluggish; I could never sleep at night and at times I could scarcely get my breath. I had taken a good many different medicines without any relief until I heard of Ten-Herbs and started to take it. Now I am glad to say I have no more indigestion—have a good appetite, sleep fine, and am not constipated. I feel that by taking Ten-Herbs in time I avoided a serious illness, as I was gradually getting worse all the time: I can't praise Ten-Herbs enough."

Ten-Herbs, the new herbal stomach liver and kidney remedy, is perhaps doing more to relieve ills of this nature than any other preparation. It is the logical remedy to take, because being made of herbs, roots, barks and berries, it is pure and harmless, and may betaken by old and young. Coming from mother earth, it is nature's own remedy—the kind our forefathers used to take. Ten-Herbs issold in Charleroi at Henning's Drug Store.

Col. Wm. J. Donovan of the Sixty-ninth Regiment objects to the "lap dog patriotism" of civilians who pet and coddle men discharged from the service. The colonel is unnecessarily alarmed. Even the "patronizing, baby-ing tactics" he complains of will hardly demoralize fighting men with stuff in them, and, besides, this sort of thing won't last long.

THOSE "NEW" LITTLE GIRLS

Their Grownup Ways Started Old-Fashioned Woman on a Pessimistic Train of Thought.

The Woman Who Sees had just bought a new veil and had hurried into the dressing room of the shop to adjust it, says the New York Sun. Crowds of women were edging their way to the mirrors to preen themselves. She managed to squirm into a space just vacated by a gorgeous creature in purple velvet. As she glanced into the mirror she noticed two youngsters standing beside her. They were both sweet-looking little things. "Not a day over fourteen," she murmured to herself, and then stared with wonder. The elder of the two pulled out a tiny vanity case and proceeded to powder the tip of her pert little nose. She next arranged a curl over her shoulder to its very best advantage, while her companion stood back admiringly. Then she preened her eyebrow with the tips of her fingers and smiled complacently. She was pretty and she knew it.

"Are you going to the frat meeting Monday evening, Dot?" queried her companion. Dot raised an eyebrow and drawled nonchalantly, "Perhaps, dearie; it depends entirely on the mood I'm in." That was the straw that broke the camel's back. The woman gave a convulsive gasp and literally bolted. Moods! She was amused and yet it was pitiful. She is not an advocate of corporal punishment, but she would have enjoyed spanking those youngsters. What kind of women will they make? The woman is puzzled.

CAESAR'S WORK IN GERMANY

Record of Famous Roman Conqueror When He Drove the Teutons Out of Flanders.

Both the American army of occupation and the German people are anxious to know just how long the khaki-clad visitors are to remain. Since no intimation comes from those in authority both of them might recall that one Julius Caesar drove the Teutons out of Flanders, in fact, he mentions a victory at Mont Auxois, says Kansas City Star. He, too, followed them right up to the Rhine, built a bridge in ten days, crossed over and took possession of the valley on the "right bank," spread out his legions to police the "treacherous inhabitants." That was in 50 B. C., and the Roman army remained 400 years. All that time flotillas of galleys were cruising up and down the Rhine. The army of occupation put the Germans to building bridges, aqueducts and castles under its direction, and the ruins of these great works now can still be seen in the valley of the Moselle. The presence of the Romans was a blessing to the Germans, however, for they pursued a liberal policy toward them, after having collected a tribute of 40,000,000 sesterces or approximately $1,500,000 for their treachery, taught them to read, to take a bath and to shave.

"Earthquake Proof" Hotels.

A chain of "earthquake proof" hotels, sufficiently magnificent to win the approval of fastidious South Americans, is to be constructed immediately by the United Hotels company, which already operates many hostelries on this half of the continent. Sites in seven countries—Chili, Peru, Brazil, Uruguay, Paraguay, Bolivia and Colombia—have been selected, and the first hotel—palatial, to judge from the architect's drawing—will be built at Lima, at a cost of $2,000,000. This is one of the largest projects ever undertaken by a hotel syndicate, and both the United States government and the South American governments interested will afford co-operation. The hotel at Lima will be one of re-enforced concrete, supported by enormous cement foundations, capable, the company believes, of offering good resistance to the disturbances of the earth's surface to be expected in those regions.—New York Evening Post.

Walk for Health.

Girls and women who walk to and from their places of employment do not, as a rule, suffer from headaches or other kindred ills. Indeed, excellent authority assures us that walking will do more to keep the average person in good physical trim than all the high-priced tonics on the market. Of course, where one has to ride several miles to one's office or workroom, going "afoot" is out of the question, but the young woman who lives within reasonable distance of her place of employment should give street cars and trains a wide berth.

In little Marie's home the advantages and disadvantages of the "wet" and "dry" have been discussed with much fervor.

When, during Sunday morning service, Marie demanded a drink and her mother informed her quietly, but firmly, that she could not have one, Marie inquired anxiously in a stage whisper:

"Can't I never have another drink, now that the country's gone dry?"

Kettle Brings $30,000.

A Japanese kettle, once owned by Rikyu, brought $30,000 when the Matzuzawa collection of antiques was sold at public auction in the Tokyo Art club not long ago. Connoisseurs to the number of 500 attended from Oska, Kiozo, Kiobe and Tokyo, and the competition was very keen, according to the Japan Bulletin.

OLD-TIME LOCKS ARE NOT SPEEDY ENOUGH

In order to ascertain the relative merits of the old and new lockage systems, the Carnegie Steel Company obtained permission from the government to make an experiment at Lock No. 6, where one of the old-style locks still exists, but which is not in use for transportation purposes. The steamer Clingerman on one of her trips up the river locked an empty barge through the old chamber and employes kept careful time on the operation. From the time the barge entered the lock until it was delivered into the sixth pool twenty-eight minutes were consumed, whereas it has been frequently demonstrated that a steamboat and six barges can be passed through the modern locks in twenty-five minutes. The object of the experiment was to show the necessity for greater locking facilities at No. 6 and that in order to accomplish this it will be necessary to construct a new chamber at that point. An official report of the experiment will be made.

SUE RAILROAD FOR MAINTAINING NUISANCE

In criminal court at Waynesburg on Tuesday the case of the commonwealth against the Monongahela Railroad was on trial. The defendant company is charged with maintaining a nuisance. It seems that in constructing the railroad between Greensboro and Crow's Ferry a distance of four miles, it was necessary for the railroad company to occupy some of the public road. It is maintained that the road that was constructed to take the place of the road which was occupied was not as good as the one formerly used and further that it is dangerous in places.

ELLWOOD FAMILY TO REUNE AT OAKLAND PARK

The Ellwood family will hold its annual reunion at Oakland Park, Thursday, June 19. It will be an all-day affair and all members of the clan have been asked to assemble as early as possible in the day and to bring well filled baskets with them. The dinner will be one of the features of the occasion. This will be the second annual reunion of the family and a large attendance is expected. William T. Ellwood of Carroll township is president of the association and is making plans for a big day.

UNDERGOES OPERATION AT ALLEGHENY GENERAL

MBrant Enos, oldest son of Dr. and Mrs. Enos, was taken to the Allegheny General Hospital on Sunday last by Dr. F. C. Stahlman, where he was operated on for mastoid. Dr. and Mrs Enos have been absent from Charleroi for the past month, but were expected to be in Trenton, N. J., today. Telegrams have been sent advising them of the condition of the boy and they are expected home shortly.

Metal Oddities.

The importance of the remarkable surface actions that distinguished metals generally was noted in a lecture by Sir William Tilden at the British scientific products exhibition. The property of platinum of causing the combination of oxygen gas with hydrogen and other combustible substances was discovered by Davy one hundred years ago, but other metals show still stranger powers. One of the most valuable is the power possessed by nickel of causing hydrogen to combine with heated oil, converting it into a fat that is solid when cold. A substance acting by its mere presence in this way is termed a catalyst, and catalystic actions are now turned to account on a large scale in making sulphuric and nitric acids and ammonia, in the surface combination of gas, in obtaining fats from whale oil, and in a variety of manufacturing processes. A great field is open in the study of catalystic effects.

A most peculiar fact about the oceans of the world is that the largest depressions are to be found near the coast lines. The three largest of these are all in the Pacific, two of them being near island coast lines. The Swire deep, just off the Philippines, measures no less than 33,000 feet from the surface of the ocean to the bottom. This is just 3,000 feet deeper than Mt. Everest, in Asia, is high. The Aldridge deep, in the South Pacific, ranks next to this, being nearly 31,000 feet deep. The third is the Tuscarora deep, near Japan, which soundings indicate to be 27,600 feet in depth. This would then make the bottom of the Tuscarora deep more than two and three-eighths miles below the average level of the bottom of the ocean.—Popular Science Monthly.

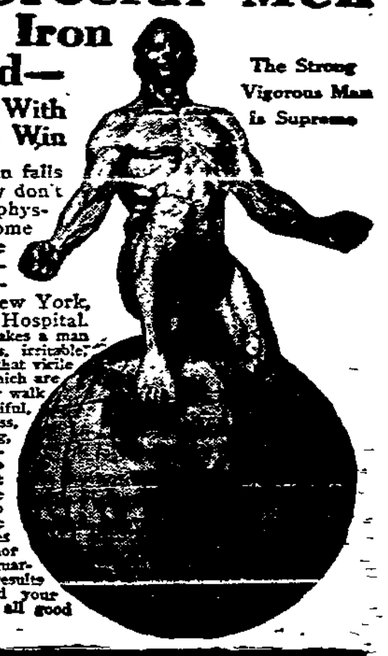
Strong, Forceful Men With Plenty of Iron In Their Blood—

These Are The Ones With The Power and Energy To Win



The Strong Vigorous Man is Supreme

"Many a capable man or woman falls just short of winning because they don't back up their mentality with the physical strength and energy which come from having plenty of iron in the blood," says Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly physician of Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Dept.), New York, and the Westchester County Hospital. "Lack of iron in the blood not only makes a man a physical and mental weakling, nervous, irritable, easily fatigued, but it utterly robs him of that virile force, that stamina and strength of will which are so necessary to success and power in every walk of life. It may also transform a beautiful, sweet-tempered woman into one who is cross, nervous and irritible. To help make strong, keen, red-blooded Americans there is nothing in my experience which I have found so valuable as organic iron—Nuxated Iron." It often increases the strength and endurance of weak, nervous, run-down people in two weeks' time. Unlike the older inorganic iron products it is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make them black nor upset the stomach. The manufacturers guarantee successful and entirely satisfactory results to every purchaser or they will refund your money. It is dispensed in this city by all good druggists.
